Tiruchy: To tap entrepreneurial and self-employment opportunities for the young generation, the Department of Women's Studies of Bharathidasan University (BDU) has been planning to organise a two-day state level seminar on 'Entrepreneurial Opportunities for Women and Youth' on June 26 and 27.

The Department of Women's Studies, in association with Women Entrepreneur Association of Tamil Nadu (WEAT), NSIC, TIIC, SIDCO and a few nationalised banks has been conducting this entrepreneurial seminar, with an aim to throw light on opportunities available to the young generation to start their own ventures.

"Free guidance and counselling to start the enterprise will also be given. Bank schemes, procedures to avail bank loans, skill training offered by banks, guidance to prepare project proposals and sharing of experiences by successful women entrepreneurs will be made available", the officials stated.

Over 30 resource persons, those who have expertise in various fields, would participate. Besides inculcating entrepreneurial knowledge to the young generation, seminar also hopes to pave way to SHGs and women entrepreneurs to exhibit talents.
